Join us every other Saturday for informative and timely gardening sessions presented online by Master Gardeners of Cuyahoga County. On August 22 the topic is:

Forcing Bulbs

Presented by Cuyahoga County
Master Gardener Volunteer Pat Koch

What's more welcome after a long, bleak winter than the fragrance and color of spring blooming bulbs in your home? With some planning now, you can create weeks of beautiful flowers to brighten your environment and your spirits. This presentation discusses the four steps in the process: selecting the right bulbs, potting, cooling, and forcing them to flower.

Pat Koch has been a Master Gardener Volunteer since 2008. Pat is a retired mathematics teacher, having taught at all levels and does a great impersonation of Pythagoras! Pat's gardens included her favorites: irises, roses, redbud trees, and fothergilla! As a Master Gardener Volunteer, Pat is the chairman of the Speakers Bureau and enjoys working with county residents of all ages as they learn more about good soil and great plants.

Registration deadline is Friday, August 21 at 12:00 Noon

There is a $5.00 fee for this event.

Information on how to connect to the online webinar will be sent to all registrants on August 21.
