Color Through the Seasons

The gardening calendar doesn't last only 6 months of the year. It is possible to have four seasons of color and interest. Plants that can fulfill multiple roles can help gardeners achieve that goal. The advantages of using shrubs for the backbone of the year-round garden are explored. This presentation also examines companion plants that provide seasonal interest and support this versatile framework of the landscape border.

Donna Schneider lives in Broadview Heights with her husband. She has been a Master Gardener Volunteer since 2011. Donna is a photographer and uses the garden to provide herself with subject matter - flowers, birds and pollinators. She is an Ohio Certified Volunteer Naturalist and a Metroparks Trail Ambassador. Donna loves the outdoors and traveling across the country in her family's travel trailer.

There is a $5.00 fee for this event.

Registration deadline: Friday, January 22 at 12 Noon
